3. Licenses to Documents and Contributions

a. License For Use Within the Gimel Foundation Process. The Gimel Foundation hereby grants to each participant in the Gimel Foundation Process, to the greatest extent that it is permitted to do so, a non-exclusive, royalty-free, worldwide right and license under all copyrights and rights of authors granted to the Gimel Foundation:

i. to copy, publish, display and distribute Contributions and Documents, in whole or in part, as part of the Gimel Foundation Process, ii. to translate Contributions and Documents, in whole or in part, into languages other than English as part of the Gimel Foundation Process, and

iii. unless explicitly disallowed in the notices contained in a Contribution or Document (as specified in Section 6 below), to modify or prepare derivative works of such Contributions or Documents, in whole or in part, as part of the Gimel Foundation Process.

b. The term Gimel Foundation Process includes the archiving of Documents in perpetuity for reference in support of Foundation activities and the implementation of Foundation standards and specifications.

c. Licenses For Use Outside the Gimel Foundation Process. In addition to the rights granted with respect to Code Components described in Section 4 below, the Gimel Foundation hereby grants to each person who wishes to exercise such rights, to the greatest extent that it is permitted to do so, a non-exclusive, royalty-free, worldwide right and license under all copyrights and rights of authors:

i. to copy, publish, display and distribute Contributions and Documents in full and without modification, ii. to translate Contributions and Documents into languages other than English, and to copy, publish, display and distribute such translated Contributions and Documents in full and without modification, iii. to copy, publish, display and distribute unmodified portions of Contributions and Documents and translations thereof, provided that:

(x) each such portion is clearly attributed to Gimel Foundation and identifies the Document or Contribution from which it is taken,

(y) all Gimel Foundation legends, legal notices, and indications of authorship contained in the original Document must also be included where any substantial portion of the text, and in any event where more than one-fifth of such text, is reproduced in a single document or series of related documents.

d. Licenses that are not Granted. The following licenses are not granted pursuant to these Legal Provisions:

i. any license to modify Contributions or Documents, or portions thereof (other than to make translations or to extract, use and modify Code Components as permitted under the licenses granted under Section 4), in any context outside the Gimel Foundation Process, or

e. Requesting Additional Rights. Anyone who wishes to request license rights from the Gimel Foundation in addition to those granted under these Legal Provisions may submit such a request to info@gimelfoundation.com. Such request will be considered by the Gimel Foundation, which will decide regarding the request in its sole discretion and inform the requester of its disposition. In addition, individual Contributors may be contacted regarding licenses to their Contributions. The Gimel Foundation does not limit the ability of Contributors to license their Contributions, so long as those licenses do not affect the rights granted to the Gimel Foundation.

f. Revocation: Gimel Foundation may revoke at its soles discretion the rights and licenses granted to a user with respect to Contributions and Documents, if the user does not use Contributions and Documents in line with Legal Provisions of Gimel Foundation.

See the License for the specific language governing permissions and limitations under the License.

If a licensee elects to apply the Apache 2.0 License to a Code Component, then the additional licenses and restrictions set forth in Section 3 and elsewhere in these Legal Provisions shall not apply thereto.

d. Attribution. Those who use Code Components under the license granted above are requested to attribute each such Code Component to Gimel Foundation and identify the Document or Contribution from which it is taken. Please reproduce this note if possible."), or any other reasonable location.

e. Revocation: Gimel Foundation may revoke at its soles discretion the rights and licenses granted to a user with respect to Code Components, if the user does not use Code Components in line with Legal Provisions of Gimel Foundation.

The terms of any license granted under these Legal Provisions may be superseded by a written agreement between the Gimel Foundation and the licensee that specifically references and supersedes the relevant provisions of these Legal Provisions, except that (i) the Gimel Foundation shall in no event be authorized to grant rights with respect to any Contribution in excess of those which it has been granted by the Contributor, and (ii) the rights granted shall not be less than those otherwise granted under these Legal Provisions.

d. Apache 2.0 License Notification. In lieu of the complete text of the Apache 2.0 License, a person who elects to license a Code Component under the Apache 2.0 License may use the following notification in the program or other file that includes the Code Component:
